Subject: Fw: Question about response to individual comments received on EISPN individual response letters need to be composed for each (substantive) comment letter. You may then mail directly the response to the commentor or send the entire scoping report including all of them to the commentor, as long as the commentor receives an answer to his/her letter. Whether individually or part of a larger package, it doesn't matter. Comment deadlines are postmark deadlines, so be sure to allow a few extra days after the deadline before finalizing your paperwork.

Subject: Question about response to individual comments received on EISPN

I am requesting a bit of guidance and clarification on response to comments received on the EISPN and project scoping. After reading HAR 11-200-15 and consulting with colleagues, I would like your guidance. For the Honolulu High-Capacity Transit Corridor Project, which was noted in last weeks Environmental Notice, we are right in the middle of the EISPN comment period.

We are preparing a scoping report that will include all comments received during scoping, a summary of all of the comments, and response to the comments. We are proposing to address the requirement of HAR 11-200-15(d) for response to each comment by sending a copy of the scoping report to everyone who sent in a comment letter or provided an oral comment, and to provide it on the web, along with an e-mail notification of its availability to everyone who sent a comment via the web.
