Sounds right, do we make this point on the call today?

I think it would be a good idea to stay away from NEPA and alternatives analysis as much as possible; according to the paper, we are supposed to identify alternatives "suitable for discussion." Let's focus on alternatives that avoid or minimize adverse effects to historic resources (that's what this exercise is all about), while respecting the outcome of proceedings, consultations, and public processes undertaken to date; thus, we're speaking of more subtle "adjustments," not wholesale changes or scraping the project. Sound O.K?

We should address the issue of alternatives straight away.
Alternatives analysis is over.
The local officials have selected an LPA.
Further discussion on other alternatives is not helpful to completing the PA process.
