Chris,

Thanks for checking. I don't have problems in you providing what you already produced but I certainly have a big problem in you producing something or spending your time with them. We cannot afford splitting your resource at this critical time.

The New Starts reg prohibits inclusion of TOD benefits in your line of analysis so it certainly is out of your shop.

Regarding the email I received from Joe Boivin of Booz Allen below. Mark suggested I double-check with you on this. It seems that at most we just tell them that we're not looking at TOD in any detail for the AA and hence don't have anything to coordinate with them on.... What are your thoughts on this.

Thanks

-Chris

Chris, I'd like to get together to learn more about how our respective work streams intersect. Specifically, we are moving forward on conducting a Transit oriented Development study and need to know the following:

- 1) What has PB done wrt TOD?
- 2) Do you have an inventory of the land along each alignment alternative?
- 3) Have you developed a community impact/characterization study to identify the impact to communities along the alignment?

There are a few other things I'd like to discuss as well and would very much appreciate spending some time with you.

Thx,

Joe
