Hello everyone,

here's an update.

I just talked to Faith Miyamoto, of the project, and told her again that we still don't have the cover page for signing, even though we reminded her about it a few times, a week and a half ago.

Unfamiliar with the details, I asked her to bring me up to speed and tell me what had recently happened to make their schedule so short and urgent at the last minute -- after they themselves took so long until now -- and what would happen if they missed another of their own unrealistic publication deadlines. She said nothing new or urgent had come-up, and they'd just publish a week later, instead.
