I. Call to Order by Chair

The Honolulu Authority for Rapid Transportation (HART) Board of Directors Chair Ivan Lui-Kwan called the meeting to order at 10:50 a.m.

II. Public Testimony on All Agenda Items

Mr. Lui-Kwan called for public testimony, and there was none.

III. Approval of Minutes of the January 16, 2014 Board of Directors Meeting

Mr. Lui-Kwan suggested deferring the approval of the January 16, 2014, HART Board of Directors (Board) meeting minutes based on a request from legal counsel for additional opportunity to review the draft minutes. There being no objections, action on the minutes was deferred.

Board of Directors Meeting Minutes
February 13, 2014

Elizabeth Scanlon, HART Director of Planning, Utilities, Permits, and Right of Way, introduced HART planner Bruce Nagao who was retiring from the City and County of Honolulu after almost 40 years of service. Ms. Scanlon and Mr. Lui-Kwan wished Mr. Nagao the best and thanked him for all his years of service.

Mr. Lui-Kwan asked for flexibility in the ordering of the agenda for the board meeting. He requested that item number 10 on the agenda, the Executive Director and CEO's Report, be moved earlier as an event was planned at 11:30 a.m. Mr. Lui-Kwan clarified the meeting would not be adjourned, but the meeting will be moved immediately outside the meeting room to the Kapolei Hale courtyard for the planned event. There were no objections.

IV. Committee Reports

A. Report on the February 13, 2014 Joint Meeting of the Finance and Project Oversight Committees

Damien Kim, Chair of the Project Oversight Committee, reported on the February 13, 2014, joint meeting of the Finance and Project Oversight Committees. He indicated that the committees would stand on the meeting that was just held unless there were any questions, as the members of the board currently present were also in attendance at the joint meeting.

HART Board member Robert "Bobby" Bunda asked HART Executive Director Daniel Grabauskas about the insurance coverage change orders. Mr. Grabauskas stated that HART staff would report the actual sums back to the full board once the numbers are received.

B. Report on the February 13, 2014 Transit Oriented Development Committee

Mr. Lui-Kwan requested to amend the agenda to remove the report on the February 13, 2014 Transit Oriented Development (TOD) Committee, as the Committee meeting was canceled. He stated the TOD Committee has worked hard to meet with different parties, and expressed his appreciation for the Committee's and TOD Committee Chair William "Buzz" Hong's work.

V. Fare Study Workshop Presentation

Mr. Grabauskas stated the Fare Study Workshop Presentation is a continuation of efforts to provide information on fare policy development to the board. Six different reports will be presented to the board at its monthly meetings and reports will also be made to the fare policy Permitted Interaction Group (PIG). He introduced J. Roger Morton, President and General Manager of Oahu Transit Services, and Trevor Findley, Senior Solutions Architect of Electronic Payment Systems for CH2MHill, to present module 2 of the Fare Study Workshop Presentation.

Mr. Morton stated the presentation would include information about existing fare media and the current system in use. He reviewed current fare types and media. He also reported on revenue breakdown by fare type, and said that the purpose of a fare system is to generate a fair amount of revenue from each rider class.

Board of Directors Meeting Minutes
February 13, 2014

Mr. Morton presented farebox recovery ratios for multimodal transportation systems across the United States. He explained that well-utilized rail systems typically have a higher recovery rate than buses. The recovery rate for TheBus is 30.6%.

Mr. Morton then discussed the distribution of passes and fare instruments. He detailed the various specialty fares, such as Senior, Disability, TheHandi-Van and U-Pass fares.

Mr. Morton reported there are issues with the facilitation of paper transfers as this is hard to administer as well as prone to fraud. These issues will be addressed as the City moves towards the use of electronic fares.

Mr. Findley presented an overview and brief history of the fare collection industry. Fare collection has included accepting tokens and cash into a fare box, which is still being done today. Magnetic stripe tickets were introduced in the 1980s; smart card systems were introduced in the 2000s and are used in cities such as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Washington D.C., Atlanta, Chicago, and Boston.

Mr. Findley reported on different fare media, and their respective advantages and disadvantages. Currently, "next-generation" smart card systems, which are characterized by additional system and fare media flexibility, have been implemented by many transit authorities. Additional advantages of such systems include minimizing dwell times, recording data electronically, reducing fraud, and improving convenience for customers. Mr. Findley stated that Honolulu is well positioned to take advantage of the next-generation smart card systems.

Mr. Findley discussed the types of media that can be accepted by a next-generation payment system. Based on the data presented, it is likely that an agency-issued card will make up a majority of the payments being accepted for the near future. Mr. Findley recommended designing a fare system that focuses on a closed loop and agency-issued cards, but has the flexibility to accept technologies such as contactless cards in the future.

Mr. Horner requested more detailed information regarding recovery ratios, noting that the Bay Area Rapid Transit, which has a 65% recovery ratio, was not included in the chart previously presented by Mr. Morton. Mr. Morton stated he only presented the recovery ratios for multi-modal agencies, and excluded commuter rail because it is unique. The information he provided showed light rail and heavy rail. Mr. Morton stated the key determinant is the utilization factor in the systems' particular cities.

Mr. Horner stated several systems outside of the United States have very high recovery ratios, part of which is the driverless nature of systems. He asked if the transit systems included in the presentation utilized driver trains, and Mr. Morton confirmed this. Mr. Horner stated the cost structure for systems with and without drivers cannot be compared directly. He stated the decision to base fares on distance, zone, or charge a flat rate all have different metrics, and will impact revenues. He requested a comparison to the system that HART is designing and asked what can be expected for the recovery ratio of a driverless system. Mr. Horner pointed out that many transit systems have debt, while the Honolulu rail project will have none.

Mr. Horner suggested that a survey of local banks may be helpful to determine if payment cards with chips are being issued. Mr. Findley stated this can be researched. Mr. Formby asked Mr. Findley if during the payments conference he attended, third party card issuers had provided reasons for the reluctance to issue contactless payment cards. Mr. Findley stated the United States is adopting the European security standard for processing credit cards, Europay, MasterCard and Visa (EMV). The EMV standard supports two types of payment: contact based payment, where credit cards with a chip are inserted into a terminal and a Personal Identification Number is entered, and contactless payment.

Mr. Grabauskas asked about the status of mobile payments. Mr. Findley said that there are a variety of mobile payment forms. He suggested designing a system that could support all, as it is unclear which technology will emerge as the predominant one.

Mr. Horner asked about the type of cards issued in a closed loop system. Mr. Findley recommended a contactless chipcard with account-based architecture. However, there is a challenge, he said, in getting the cards into the hands of the customers.

Barbra Armentrout offered testimony regarding the importance of allowing the public to comment on fare policy.

X. Executive Director and CEO's Report

Mr. Lui-Kwan proposed that the agenda item X, Executive Director and CEO's Report, be taken out of order. There being no objections, Mr. Grabauskas proceeded with his report. He invited members and the public into the courtyard, where a full-sized model of the HART train was unveiled. Mr. Grabauskas said that the model would be on display in Kapolei Hale through April. He thanked Mayor Kirk Caldwell, the Mayor's Office of Culture and the Arts, HART Public Information Officer Jeanne Mariani-Belding, and Ansaldo Honolulu JV Project Manager Enrico Fontana for their work in bringing the model over and putting it in place.

Mr. Grabauskas also reported that data recovery work had been continuing in the City Center section, where an archaeological find had been made. He said that staff continued to focus on traffic mitigation and safety.

VI. Construction and Traffic Update

HART Director of Design and Construction Lorenzo Garrido introduced Maintenance and Storage Facility (MSF) Project Manager Akira Fujita, who gave an update on the completion of the mass grading, drainage and sewer system work at the MSF. The following week, work was expected to begin on the foundation of the Operations and Service Building.

Karley Halsted, HART West Oahu/Farrington Highway Project Manager, reported that eight guideway segments had been cast at the precast yard. The following week, work would be done on the intersection outside the yard. Utility relocation was ongoing near Waipahu High School, and work on the foundation of the underpass above the Leeward Community College Station was underway.

HART Kamehameha Highway Guideway Project Manager Matt Scanlon reported that work was being done on four active test shafts. Utility relocations also continued along Kamehameha Highway.

Board of Directors Meeting Minutes
February 13, 2014

HART Information Specialist Scott Ishikawa and Kiewit Communications Director Allison Andrade provided project traffic information update for work along Farrington Highway, the H-1/H-2 Freeway merge, and Kamehameha Highway.

Mr. Grabauskas thanked the Star Advertiser and Civil Beat for partnering with HART on communicating traffic information to the public.

Mr. Formby requested a presentation on how the guideway precast segments are assembled, and Mr. Garrido confirmed that a presentation would be made. Mr. Formby asked about traffic outreach to neighborhood boards and legislators, and Mr. Ishikawa confirmed that HART staff had been communicating with them.

Ms. Okinaga asked how many traffic complaints had been received, and Mr. Ishikawa said only four calls had been received.

VII. Legislative Update

HART Director of Government Relations Joyce Oliveira asked Mr. Formby for clarification regarding his question on HART's traffic outreach to legislators. Mr. Formby said that Senator Kidani had received inaccurate traffic information.

Ms. Oliveira updated the Board on legislative measures being monitored by HART, which include 12 measures on the General Excise Tax (GET) surcharge. The first lateral deadline for bills referred to two committees would be on February 14, 2014. So far, nine GET measures had not been referred.

VIII. Litigation Update

Deputy Corporation Counsel Gary Takeuchi provided a brief update as to the status of litigation. A hearing was held by the U.S. District Court on February 6, 2014, regarding compliance with the court's prior order regarding additional study of the Beretania Street Tunnel alternative. The parties were awaiting a ruling by the U.S. District Court, as well as the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Mr. Lui-Kwan indicated that he had attended the February 6 hearing and the legal team representing the City had done an outstanding job.

Mr. Lui-Kwan asked if there was any reason for executive session, and there was none.

IX. Adjournment

There being no further business before the board, the meeting was adjourned at 12:54 p.m.

Respectfully Submitted,

Cindy Matsushita

Multimodal Fare Collection Study

HART Board Briefing

February 13, 2014

CH2MHILL

State of the Fare Collection Industry

Fare collection has undergone significant changes over the last 30 years

* In development

There is a major shift occurring in the industry, and Honolulu is well positioned to take advantage of it

Advancement of Fare Media

Paper Fare Media

- Support a variety of “fare products” (e.g., transfers and calendar-based passes)
- Requires visual inspection – low security, easy to counterfeit
- Only manually recorded data on usage

Magnetic Fare Media

- Support more complex fare policies (e.g., distance-based fares) and fare products (e.g., rolling passes)
- Provide electronic validation and usage data – possible to counterfeit
- High maintenance costs

Contactless Smart Cards

- Support very complex fare policies and products (e.g. fare capping)
- Provide detailed and reliable electronic data
- High security and low maintenance costs (no moving parts)

Advantage of “Next Generation” Fare Collection

First Generation Smart Card Systems

- Card-Based: information stored on the card; complex fare payment devices and software; offline processing
- Closed-Loop: based on proprietary formats and protocols; limited fare media options
- Single System Integrator: reliance on single vendor for support, upgrades and maintenance; limited-flexibility; high-cost to upgrade and expand

Next Generation Smart Card Systems

- Account-Based: information stored in back office account; off-the-shelf fare payment devices; centralized fare calculation; online processing
- Open Payments: standardized card formats; credit and debit payment options; mobile payment options
- Open Architecture: agency-controlled interfaces; flexible procurement options; enhanced interoperability

Fare Media Comparison

	Flexibility	Security	Data / Reporting	Media Cost	Maint. Cost
Paper Media	1	1	0	4	4
Magnetic Media	2	2	2	3	1
Traditional (Card-Based) Smart Cards	3	3	4	1	2
Next-Generation (Account-Based) Smart Cards	4	4	4	2	2

0 = Least Desirable

4 = Most Desirable

Open and mobile payment adoption will take time

Open and mobile payments can offer flexibility, but are unlikely to generate significant transactions in the near future

ADMINISTRATION OF SALES OF MONTHLY BUS PASSES

- Custody and Inventory centralized within our Fare Collection Facility.
- Passes to retail outlets are generally delivered to a single head office.
- Passes are consigned and payment is made after the end of the monthly sales period.
- No commission paid to retail outlets that sell Monthly and 4-Day passes.

SENIOR, DISABILITY & THEHANDI-VAN PASSES

- These passes include user photograph
- About 36,000 picture passes produced annually at the Bus Pass Office at the Middle Street Transit Center
- Up to 400 per day

U-Pass

City & County of Honolulu

- At UH Manoa and Chaminade, all students receive a U-Pass sticker that is affixed to the student ID card. Every student is assessed a “mandatory” fee of $30 per semester.
- Good for unlimited riding
- About 12 other colleges have chosen to participate in an “Opt-In” program where only students who need a bus pass can purchase one for the reduced fare of $150/Semester

About 20,000 Mandatory
About 5,000 Opt-In

Paper Transfers

About 20,000 transfer riders per day

- Transfer policies:
 - Riders who pay a cash fare may request a free paper transfer upon boarding
 - Transfers are valid for two hours – the expiration time is shown at the top of the torn transfer
 - Riders may use the transfer to board any number of buses in any direction to complete a single trip, as long as transfers are made during the valid period
 - It is not permitted to be give away or sell transfers
- Transfer operation:
 - Bus operator manually tear transfer slips at a time of two hours from transfer request
 - Transfer slips are visually validated by operators within the two hour timeframe, and are collected at expiration
