TWO MILES OF GUIDEWAY COMPLETED

The elevated guideway for Honolulu's rail transit system now stretches for more than two miles across the Ewa plain.

Construction crews have been busy connecting the concrete segments on top of the columns that have been erected from east Kapolei and heading into Waipahu.

Workers are also fastening the steel rail on which the rail vehicles will run onto the elevated guideway.

Rail construction work now runs through the Airport and Pearl Harbor areas as well as Aiea, Pearl City and Waipahu.

Motorists are asked to drive safely around our work areas.
