100 SPANS AND COUNTING

Work is progressing on the elevated guideway on the ewa end of the Honolulu rail project.

Construction crews have now built more than 100 spans between east Kapolei and Waipahu. A span is that part of the guideway which is built between two support columns.

And in Waipahu, workers are starting to build columns east of Fort Weaver Road.

All told, there are now nearly 150 columns that stretch from Kapolei and into Waipahu, more than half the number planned for the first section of the rail guideway.
