HONOLULU RAIL TRANSIT PROJECT UPDATES

The Honolulu Rail Transit Project continues to make progress from East Kapolei through Waipahu and into Pearl City and Aiea. Here's a snap shot of the work being done.

In Waipahu, crews have installed all 283 columns and cast and constructed 3,209 guideway segments. Currently, about four miles of track have been laid out on the finished guideway. Farrington Highway is also being repaved and restored.

Construction of the rail project is also moving through Kamehameha Highway in Pearl City and Aiea. So far, 117 columns have been installed and 915 guideway segments constructed in that section of the rail corridor.
