Hi Joe,

I just got a fax from Honolulu. Our signed cover page the next day, but they've changed their minds anyway. They've decided to send you the DEIS next week, instead.

Hello everyone,

here's an update.

I just talked to Faith Miyamoto, of the project, and told her again that we still don't have the cover page for signing, even though we reminded her about it a few times, a week and a half ago.

Unfamiliar with the details, I asked her to bring me up to speed and tell me what had recently happened to make their schedule so short and urgent at the last minute -- after they themselves took so long until now -- and what would happen if they missed another of their own unrealistic publication deadlines. She said nothing new or urgent had come-up, and they'd just publish a week later, instead.
