Thank you, Ray.

Regarding the EA, I think you're right. It was an EA under the State's environmental process. I think that the briefing adequately covers the issue by saying that they "initiated a review under the State environmental process"

On the procurement issue, I would rather not include a description of FTA's routine approach. We still need more information from them. Correct? I wouldn't want to imply to Peter that we might take that approach described below. Also, I think he's pretty well aware of potential approaches due to his experience with the Houston procurement issues. If this causes you heartburn, please let me know, I just think we should be cautious about implying what would happen before we have all of the information.

Thanks,
Robyn

Leslie and Ed are at the Muni quarterly and will have difficulty responding. I think it is a much-improved version and perfectly useful for briefing Peter.

I have two thoughts for background:

- 1) On the pre-cast yard, I recall an advertisement by Kiewit for an Environmental Assessment.
- 2) On the lack of federal procurement clauses for the Infraconsult contract, FTA's more routine approach would require that the agency find a cure through open competition and re-bid the contract.

Subject: Final Draft Honolulu Briefing

Good morning everyone,

Attached is the final draft of the Honolulu briefing for Peter. This is due to TCA today. Please let me know if you have any concerns or edits as soon as possible.

Thanks for your assistance,
Robyn
