I sent this question to the City's legal counsel asking him to explain the Governor's remarks re State review of the FEIS. I'm out until Monday but if I get a response I'll forward.

There is a state environmental process that I believe the Governor has to sign off on. I'll check with Honolulu.

The state is a participating agency and they do not have signatory authority on the document. Once the doc begins circulating the state can't stop Leslie from signing a ROD.

However, the State Historic Preservation Officer is a signatory to the 106 PA. It's not going anywhere without her signature. If the 106 doc is not signed by SHPO and ACHP, Leslie won't sign the FEIS. The last time I looked, she worked for the governor.

Jim: What is the state's role in the FEIS? Does the governor's threat to make the City consider at-grade alternatives carry any weight? Or maybe this is just another reflection of relationship between the governor and the mayor.
